My mother Frankie P. Griffith passed away on December 29, 2007 at the age of 92. She and my father started Eagle Point Farm back in 1947. Mother was the woman behind the scenes. She entertained owners, trainers, vets, paint salesman and cattlemen. If you never had one of her corn puddings or a deviled egg, you missed a treat. She was a gracious host and a real partner with my father. They traveled to Kentucky every fall for the yearling sales and attended most of the races on the east coast when a horse was running. She was a smart business woman and could tell you the price of plow or load of hay. The third and second generation of Eagle Point Farm have big steps to follow.
